In all honesty its a great game and definently worth buying; however it's definently not $50 worth. The only REAL next gen thing about this game is graphics. Most of the game mechanics are kind of a let down. There is also many glitches to encounter with in this game. For instants, celebrating after a goal, you may phase right through the net. It's not game breaking but frankley unprofessional of the developers. As a defencive player in high school, I have found the defence in this game insulting. Sorry if I offend anyone, but it almost makes us look \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665. And the goalies, I know there is a ton of scoring in lacrosse (I play it) but, the goalies reactions are terrible as well. Not because they can't save anything, it's because there movements are choppy and not fluent, smoothe. If you dissagre with me I totally get, but I have been waiting for this game since the fund raised, and kinda have been disappointed with the outcome. I know you developers in a lot of hard work, and i appreciate it, but some of these mistakes are impossible to miss. I cannot get past the part I had to go out and buy a new controller to be able to play this. No keyboard support, REALLY? Don't get me wrong I do love this game, and I'd love to see some updates for future improvement. But for the time being I really do not believe this should be a $50 game.. Without question, the must have for any Lacrosse fan. It is a great game even if your not into Lacrosse can appreciate. Unbelievably detailed graphics that capture the entire experience.. I really like the other games from Big Ant (especially Don Bradman Cricket 14, but Rugby League 3 too) and I bought Lacrosse 16 because it's from them. I had never seen a Lacrosse game before, I only knew it's a rather exotic sport from Canada and I was curious. And hey, it is like Ice Hockey on grass. Similar pace, similar fun, similar rules, easy to learn. The controls (especially the shooting) seemed strange to me at first (moving the right stick instead of pressing a button), but I got used to them and won some matches already. I love sports games, and I love them even more if they are not from EA and cost less than EA's games.. For the moment I would recommend it for fans of the sport (though you will have a number of issues with the game since it's not perfect). It's a fun game when it's core aspects are working and by god will the AI punish you. I will probably update this review over time.. good idea but lots of bugs in the end its fun. My thoughts on the game,

It is a 8V10 game for me here is why, I love the controls it feels like a mix between hockey and soccer games and flows nicely. The hits and passing feel smooth. The only odd feeling part is face offs. I love the game play and I even more love that a real Lacrosse game is finally out. It is a bit pricey but it is worth the money to me.

Finally, a lacrosse video game.. Garbage. The gameplay was choppy and lagged every time there was a possession change regardless of what I did to adjust the settings, and even during momentary times of somewhat smooth play the game still lacked any sort of feel of anymore than something that belongs as a cellphone game or freeware. It does seem to offer a lot of features, but that ended up mostly just being a distraction that caused me to surpass the playtime limit for me to be eligible for a refund...at least I learned that lesson in case there ever comes a 'next time'. If it was possible for a downloaded game to collect dust, this game would surely find itself covered in a thick layer of it very quickly. Such a shame....it seems like it could have been so much more.. First of all the price of this game is WAY to much and should be worth $30 max.(its $50 now) The game and ideas are great,but there are poblems Installing the game and playing for the first time there was no tutorial or practice mode where u could really learn the controls. I found the controls on the difficult side to memorize, and jumping right into a game was overwhelming. I started with manual controls to switch players ect but found it wouldnt switch to the person i wanted and would go to someone across the field that couldnt even be in the play. i found that alone extremely frustrating, because it made defense impossible. I then switched to automatic and that as well went to players on attack while i was playing D. I found offense very easy and playable, at times the game would pass to the wrong person but i guess that takes practice to aim it to the right person. The annoying stuff on offense would be if a offensive player passed it across midline to defense. which causes you to lose the ball and its just annoying.. why would i want to pass there? While playing defense u can really only be one player therefore AI in the game is supposed to cover the other players that cut through. AI did not do this so i pretty much played a 6 on 1 because my AI teammates litterally stood still and did nothing. I would recomend the game if what above is fixed... as of right now dont buy it for $50, its only really fun while playing with a friend and that means u have to buy another controller or they have to buy the game themself. (ITS NOT WORTH IT). This game is so unrealistic... There's people in the stands.

The AI isn't all that great. The controls are a little weird at first, but once you get used to them you can do some really great things, like switching your stick hand, different dodges, behind the back shooting, and jumping over the crease. The defense is actually pretty well thought out. I even saw one of my guys slide to the right attackman.

Overall, I'd recommend it. It's a lacrosse game for PC. It's not perfect, but it's good enough.. Great game, similar to FIFA but for Lacrosse. Quite difficult to defend but it gets much better with practice. Really fun game overall, would recommend to anyone!. Simply put, this game is not worth $50. It is basically a reskin of the games for Xbox they released several years ago with added career modes. I played Lacrosse at the DIII level and while this game does do some things well, it gets bogged down by an unexplained control scheme, poor AI, and wonky physics. Half-field offense is extremely difficult as is 1v1 dodging because you can never accurately judge when the D can take the ball away from you. Defensive players simply charge the ballcarrier and slide up-field with no regard to team defense, turning the game into a fast break simulator. This is a good start and I will pick it up again when the price drops to around $15-20. Hopefully they get the opportunity to make another and focus on improving the AI and tweaking the little things so that the game can accurately reflect the half-field game which is where the majority of the game is played.. I think that this game is amazing. I will give the creators props because this game is probably the first lacrosse game I have seen. As a Lax player, I think that this game interprets lacrosse perfectly. The only suggestion is: Please make the goalie position playable!!! that would be amazing. I love playing goalie (for that is what I strive to play, right now I play D.) and I just hope there could be an update to make the goalie position playable. Other than that, a great game! Ps. I have a laptop, and it is very laggy, so I would recomend that you have a PC to play this game, but I still play it because I love Lacrosse. Great job Developers!!!
